Subject: Grenfell and roof detail

Chaps

I sat with Rydon this am and went through masses of minor issues on the drawings, and have resolved 99% of them, awaiting Rydon to feed back on a couple of issues.

On the roof detail, we discussed this am that if the cladding stopped short of the parapet beam, this would allow abseiling for future maintenance. I have just spoken to our planning advisor who says it is a small risk – but at 74 m above ground level it would be imperceptible! Would you please ask Rydon to price for this change please?

Otherwise, have we heard from Rydon about reinstatement of curtaining after the window renewal?

Thanks
