Hi Ian,

As discussed, can you please confirm the exact information they are after and we can look to assist. We are not able to issue the full test report as this is proprietary and confidential information to Celotex and the RS5000 launch.

Thanks

Regards
Paul

All,

Please can I have the complete document, please see attached e-mail.

Keepmoat aren't trying to be funny, they just need the complete document to ensure what we are proposing as an alternative is completely up to spec.

Regards

Luke

Not being an expert on all this technical data.

Are we being blown out by Kingspan pulling Keepmoats strings?

Should we ask Luke if he has Kingspans reports?

Or is this something we can get hold of.

Luke,

Apologies if I appeared pushy. It's not the intention.

The certificate is missing section 3 which confirms the build up of the cladding system. I also require a copy of Fire performance of external thermal insulation for walls of multi-storey buildings, Third edition, Annex B 2013 in order to understand the report.

Regards,

Paul.

Luke,

Thank you for the U value calculation. Unless we have sight of a valid fire certificate proving its integrity under test conditions for the application proposed on site we will be unable to use the product.
