Charlie,

Thanks and v helpful. Robin C would be great to have access to .. we can speak tomorrow re this.

We're going to scope where we are in the morning and should have a clearer sense then. Do you know status of the mortuary etc? I have a specific ask which I think has been done/agreed already .. will cover off tomorrow if we can speak when you're at K&C.

Great to see colleagues stepping up .. as you say scale and complexity enormous.

Best, J

I just wanted to say well done for getting Nicholas to agree to London Resilience help. I have tried to get him to recognise this is too big for RBKC and we have offered a wide variety of help but, he hasn't been able to acknowledge that it would be necessary. I fear he doesn't quite understand the implications and wider significance of what's going on. However, I have had a long conversation with him tonight especially about his personal resilience and a range of operational issues. We have offered a number of key personnel including a colleague who handled all the Southwark fire comms in 2013 - I think?

He has also asked about permanent housing opportunities from neighbouring authorities including Brent and Hammersmith- I have spoken to Carolyn this evening and we are meeting Kim tomorrow to discuss further.

My Leader has also offered Nick P-B support and we have a range of people on standby should you think that helpful.

Happy to discuss further tomorrow if that's helpful- I understand John you are at K&C tomorrow and I am seeing Nicholas at 12.

Cheers

Charlie
