I have no idea about this, but on the basis you can only do something if you know about it

I cannot believe this but I checked it out and it is true. DFS have decided to keep charging the Grenfell Tower victims for any furniture they have bought off of them even though it is disintegrated. Even if they have bought the insurance package that doesn't include fire ! You couldn't make it up I think the world has gone mad. I suggest anyone with Twitter send them a message telling them what you think of them,
