Dear Rabia Yahyo,

Installation of New Central Heating in your Home

Following a recent visit to your property I understand that you have agreed the location of Heat Interface Unit (HIU) within the kitchen in your home following a discussion with you about the implications of the various options.

A draft consent form was discussed with you. A typed version is attached. Can you please sign and return via the Rydon letterbox at the walkway lobby by the entrance door.

I understand that an appointment has been made with you for the installation of the new central heating system from the end of September onwards. Closer to this time Rydon will be in contact to carry out a more detailed survey with you prior to installation.

It is important that you keep this appointment. As you would appreciate, the contractor has a tight schedule to complete these works and I would remind you that you have an obligation under the terms of your [lease / tenancy] to give access so we can carry out such works.

The proposal is that the hallway installations are connected to the new system first, so that any issues with the alternative positions cause minimal disruption to the majority of residents' hot water and heating. However, this means that the kitchen/one bedroom cupboard installations may run into the heating season, which was not anticipated with the previous arrangement.

If you have any further questions about the contents of this letter, please contact David Gibson or Claire Williams on [REDACTED]

Yours sincerely

Peter Maddison
