David,

I'm currently down to attend the Gateway 2 meeting on KALC that morning. Someone from our side should be able to attend. We are meeting as a team in an hour on site and will review the BREEAM.

We have identified a £200k saving against the just on the measure to the elevations. Terry didn't identify any fundamental problems with the fire strategy but liaison with Building Control is essential because, as he put it, RBKC set their own standards. Exova outline strategy attached.

Dear all

Further to Chweecheen's below email we need to evaluate the Scope of works in line with the BREEAM Pre-Assessment issued by Syntegra, and bottom out where we can achieve savings if possible. Also on the agenda will be Stage C/D reports and any design changes as a consequence of fire safety measures.

To that end I propose we meet next week to discuss... at present the best (almost only) slot is 1pm onwards on Friday 21st at Appleyards, High Holborn.

Bruce – I hope that you have had a chance to liaise with Terry of Exova and assume there may be design changes needed.

Please could you let me know your availability asap and I will send the invite out, I'm on leave tomorrow but back Monday so your urgent reply appreciated.

Give me a call if you have any queries

Thanks, regards

Dave

Subject: 11833 Grenfell Tower Regeneration Project - Cost Plan nr. 3 [Filed 06 Sep 2012 12:49]

Importance: High

Dear All,

Please find attached Budget Cost Estimate nr. 3 based on Stage C information received.

Please note that the Landscaping works scope of work is based on information issued by Churchman Landscape Architects on 10th August 12 (drawing nr. 341/105).

This may need to review to define and agree the actual scope of work under this regeneration project.

We have also included the works to existing garage (conversion from garage to offices); and solar control glass and manual purge ventilators (to deal with overheating issue) and kitchen extract ventilation as recommended by Max Fordham in their report dated 30 July 12.

Please do not hesitate to contact me should you have any queries.

Kind regards,

Chwee Chen
